ENERGY AIR, INC.
Nobody Works Harder

It's 2 a.m.

The rooftop unit that cools your emergency department just went out.
What do you do?

This is a question we know many of our clients are forced to ask themselves. You need a proactive approach to making sure your facility stays on-line at all times. It's worth millions to your hospital's budget, and it's priceless for your patients.

At Energy Air, we work hard to keep our customers' needs in mind. We know the critical factors you deal with on a daily basis, and we work hard to develop solutions that can ease your mind.

We take every opportunity to ensure your facility can be maintained and operable at all times. If a shutdown is required, the proper precautions will be taken- including the opportunity to provide temporary cooling, if needed.

Our Energy Air commercial healthcare team travels with a specialized healthcare trailer that stores all negative air equipment necessary to maintain an operating room during a shutdown.

This ensures all equipment needed is on site and readily available and allows us to keep full control of the environment the equipment is kept in.

If you need to call us at 2 am, we're ready. All equipment is stored and ready to transport to your location at the drop of a hat.

If you have a sense of urgency, so do we.
